

Kickapoo Tribe State Youth Treatment Implementation

The Kickapoo Tribe's SYTI project is developed to bring together vital services for the Native American community. The purpose of the SYTI grant is to bridge the gaps between necessary services and available assistances, break down the barriers of indispensable care, and to implement substance abuse treatment and early intervention services for American Indian Youth and emerging Adults who are at risk of or currently experiencing symptoms of substance misuse.

Protecting the Future

The adolescent/transitional adult years are a key window for substance use and development of substance use disorders. Drug use at an early age is an important predictor of development of a substance use disorder later, which adds to the urgency of identifying and intervening as early as possible.

What are signs of drug use in adolescents?

- Changes in mood/behavior
- Frequently tired/depressed
- A change in peer group
- Carelessness with grooming
- Decline in grades
- Missing/skipping school
- Loss of interest in activities
- Changes in eating/sleeping
- Deteriorating relationships with family/friends
